Re: Docket #04-00434 - Wastewater Forum

In response to your inquiry regarding various issues being researched relative to wastewater utilities in counties across the state, please be advised that Grainger County at this time does not require any type of bond (to my knowledge).

Because Grainger County is one of the fastest growing counties in East Tennessee I do feel this is an issue that we need to look into and probably implement in the near future. We currently are in the process of revising our Subdivision and Planned Unit Development Regulations as well as contracting with the state for a local planner.

Please keep me informed of any future developments regarding this matter.

Sincerely,

Paul Q. Merritt

Dear Ms. Standley:

I am in receipt of your letter of March 30 regarding bonding requirements for wastewater companies operating in Hickman County. This letter is to certify that at the present time, Hickman County does not have any bonding requirements in place for such activities.

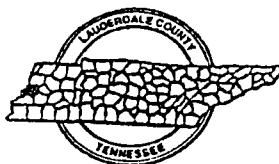

We are, however, just beginning the process of land use planning and the use of codes, so this may be something that will be addressed in the future. Please let me know if you have any further questions concerning this matter.

Re: Docket No. 04-00434 – Wastewater Forum

Dear Ms. Standley

Montgomery County does not require any type of bond to be in place before a wastewater utility can construct or operate outside the city limits of Clarksville. However, I am interested in knowing if there are other counties in Tennessee that require such a bond, and if so, can you supply me with the details.

Thank you for your assistance.

Sincerely,

Douglas Weiland
Mayor, Montgomery County
